

MARTIAL LAW IS PROCLAIMED OVER ALL OF GERMANY

Drastic Action Follows Attack By Mob on Reichstag Tuesday Night.

TEN KNOWN TO BE KILLED

Relief Is Casualties As Result of Defense of Government Building By Troops Are Greater Than Reported; Great Excitement Reigns Inside.

By Associated Press.

BERLIN, Tuesday, Jan. 13 (8 P. M.)—The government tonight proclaimed martial law in all sections of Germany following the mob demonstration this afternoon in which at least 10 persons were killed and many others were injured by machine gun fire in front of the reichstag building, Gustave Noske, the minister of defense, has been appointed commander in chief for the greater Berlin district and Brandenburg province. Street parades, meetings and demonstrations of all kinds have been prohibited. While the number of dead was announced as 10 early this evening it seems possible that the fatalities will exceed this total. Members of the national assembly, meeting in the chamber in the inner center of the building, heard only faint reports of the shots. Gradually the news of the clash reached the chamber and an order followed into the corridor into which a score of men from the mob succeeded in penetrating and immediately started a general rampage. Up in the press gallery the excitement was equally intense.

The government admits the loss of one member of the troop of guards killed in the fighting, while several are missing. The big oak-paneled door which gives access to the west wing of the reichstag building was closed at dusk. The members of the assembly were not molested as they left the reichstag building.

COLD WAVE AGAIN

High Winds and Snow Flurries Accompany Frigid Spell.

Snow fell last night and this morning, lightly covering the ground. The weather forecast is not continued cold.

FOUR HUNDRED BELIEVED LOST ON THE AFRIQUE

But 57 Survivors of Foundered Vessel Known to Have Safely Landed.

By Associated Press.

LA ROCHELLE, France, Jan. 14.—More than 400 persons are believed to have lost their lives in the wreck of the steamer Afrique on Roche Honne island, Bay of Biscay. Only 57 survivors have been landed. Hope for the rescue of the rest of the passengers faded during the night as hour after hour passed without evening tidings and 72 hours after the vessel foundered many feared one of the greatest marine tragedies of modern times was enacted off the coast before dawn Sunday morning.

Sailors and French colonial soldiers are the only persons known to have landed. "It was impossible to approach the Afrique," said Captain Joze of the steamer Ceylan, which was summoned to the scene of the wreck by wireless on Saturday and which attempted to rescue those on the doomed vessel. "I remained in wireless communication with the ship, however, and received the following messages: 'I am drifting and I fear the ship will go ashore.' 'Later came another message saying: 'I am steering for a light.' 'Then came a final message: 'We are sinking.' 'That is all I know about the loss of the Afrique.'"

Some of the rescued sailors declared that when with great difficulty the boats were swung out passengers were afraid to jump for them as they were already half full of water.

PARIS, Jan. 14.—It was announced at the office of the company owning the steamer Afrique that the bodies of 12 persons from the foundered vessel had been washed ashore at Sabios D'Olonne.

THIRTY HOURS WEEKLY THROUGHOUT YEAR IS DEMAND OF MINERS

This Explanation Is Given Government Commission Adjusting Causes of Recent Coal Strike.

BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 14.—Miners continued today their arguments for wage advances and shorter hours before the President's coal commission, adjusting the causes of the recent strike.

"It is the inability of the miners to get regular work that makes them require 60 per cent increase," John Moore, president of the Ohio district, said. "No miner can tell whether the mine is going to work the next day or not."

John L. Lewis gave out a statement reiterating the miners' demands for 30 hours a week only asked "assurance that they will have not less than 30 hours of steady work each week in the year."

"The public has the wrong impression on that," he said "because they were led to believe the miners were opposed to working more than 30 hours a week. The fact is, the coal miners cannot earn a living for the whole year by working only a part of the time no matter how many hours of the day they may work. But if they can be assured of not less than 30 hours a week throughout the year at a reasonable and fair wage they can make a living for himself and family."

Lewis said the miners could produce all the coal the country needed on a 30 hour week basis.

LUTHER B. COLLINS, LOCAL DRUGGIST, IS SUDDENLY CALLED

Death of Well-known Young Business Man at Home Follows Brief Illness.

LOCATED HERE IN 1909

Luther B. Collins, 36 years old, one of Connellsville's leading druggists, died suddenly this morning at his home in Morrell avenue, Greenwood, following an illness dating back to Sunday, December 28, last. Mr. and Mrs. Collins were celebrating their ninth wedding anniversary with a small family dinner at the time he was taken ill and with their guests had been seated at the table only a short time when Mr. Collins was stricken very suddenly with an attack of heart trouble. His condition improved, however, and for the past several days he was able to sit up in bed and had expected to come down stairs today. This morning about 4:10 o'clock Mrs. Collins was awakened by Mr. Collins' heavy breathing. She immediately summoned the family physician, but on his arrival life was extinct. Mr. Collins was one of the most prominent young citizens of Connellsville and his untimely death came as a great shock to his many friends.

The deceased was born in German Valley, N. J., October 31, 1883, a son of Rev. Benjamin B. Collins, deceased, a Lutheran minister, and Mrs. Ella Collins of Meyersdale. When he was between seven and eight years old his parents moved from German Valley to Altoona, residing there for about 18 months. They then removed to Meyersdale, where the deceased spent his early boyhood and young manhood days. He was graduated in pharmacy from the Western University of Pennsylvania and then became a druggist for May & Company, Pittsburgh. Resigning his position there he came to Connellsville in the early spring of 1909 and purchased the drug store of Richard Crossland in South Pittsburgh street, continuing successfully in the business until his late illness.

On Christmas Day, 1911, Mr. Collins was married at his home in Meyersdale to Miss Della Mae Sisley, daughter of C. P. Sisley of Pittsburgh, his father Rev. Collins, who was in addition to his widow, he is survived by one son, son, Luther Hoffman Collins, his mother, one sister, Mrs. H. C. Wade, Fairmont, W. Va., and the following brothers: Herbert S. Collins, Pittsburgh; Leigh R. Collins and Frederick M. Collins, both of Meyersdale; George B. Collins, and Phillips D. Collins of Berlin. His father died in 1911.

Mr. Collins was a member of King Solomon Lodge P. A. M., and of Trinity Lutheran church. He was popular among his fellow druggists as well as his many other friends.

Brief funeral services will be held Friday morning at the family residence, after which the body will be taken on Baltimore & Ohio train No. 6 by Funeral Director Charles C. Mitchell to Meyersdale. The remains will be removed to the home of a brother, Leigh R. Collins, where regular funeral services will be held Friday afternoon at 2 o'clock. Rev. J. L. Prantz, pastor of the Meyersdale Lutheran church, will officiate. Interment will be in the Meyersdale cemetery.

MINISTERS VOTE $50 FOR NEAR EAST RELIEF CAMPAIGN

Appeal Is Made to Aid Starving Armenians and Syrians; Churches Country Over Join In.

The Ministerial association of Connellsville at a meeting Monday morning voted $50 in the Near East Relief fund and passed a resolution urging the churches of the city to take an offering for this cause as soon as possible. Most of the churches in America have been urged to take an offering for Near East relief for some Sunday in January. Near East relief is for the suffering people of Armenia and Syria, who are dependent entirely upon America for help.

"These people are in a critical condition," says the call. "Their constant cry is 'bread.' Herbert Hoover in a recent statement said: 'In my opinion, in the near east is the most desperate situation in the world. It is impossible that the loss of 200,000 lives can at this day be prevented, but the rescuing 500,000 can possibly be saved. They need not starve and freeze and die if the Christian people of America will save them.' President Wilson, in an address on Armenia, September 6, 1919, said: 'Great populations are driven out upon a desert where there is no food—and can be none, and they are compelled to die. Then men, women and children are thrown into a common grave, so imperfectly covered up that there and there is a putrid arm stretched out to heaven; as there is no help in the world. When shall we awake to the moral responsibilities of this great occasion?'"

FAYETTE BANKS GROW

Total Resources At This Time $700,000 To Be $550,000.

Resources of National banks and trust companies in Fayette county aggregate almost $550,000, with deposits slightly less than $300,000, according to reports submitted to the comptroller of the currency and the state banking department at the end of business December 31. The reports reflect a substantial increase in the strength of Fayette county banks during the past year and they represent a most successful year for that just commencing.

Fayette county during the war absorbed $300,000 in Liberty bonds and a substantial amount of that figure is included in the resources of the banks. During the war the banking business prospered upon the efforts of Liberty Loans and the efforts of bankers were concentrated upon aiding the Liberty Loan committee in its efforts to develop the various sources. But even when their business is now more fixed and they are able to give attention to the development of resources and enterprises in the county which was not possible when the financial fabric was so interwoven with government securities.

January Stock-Adjustment.

Anyone who wants to economize cannot afford to miss the opportunity of these great sales. Our advice is to all to take immediate and full advantage of the startling savings offered. These sales have already met with such enthusiastic response that certain lots are dwindling fast. Remember, too, that the radically lowered stock-adjustment prices will prevail only so long as the lots included will last.

A business so large as this must naturally clean house—at this season's stock must be adjusted to proper proportions—certain lots whose quantities are limited must go. All in all these sales make up an enormous total. To clear them all out by radically reducing prices is good business. These January Stock-Adjustment Sales will accomplish our end decisively and quickly. Wonderful bargains now that you should see. Bendiner's Ladies Store. Scottdale—Adv.

IS YOUR BLOOD HUNGRY FOR IRON?

Modern Methods of Cooking and Living Have Made An Alarming Increase in Iron Deficiency in Blood of American Men and Women

NUXATED IRON
Helps Make Red Blood

The Kind That Puts Roses Into the Cheeks of Women and Forces Strength and Courage Into Veins of Men.

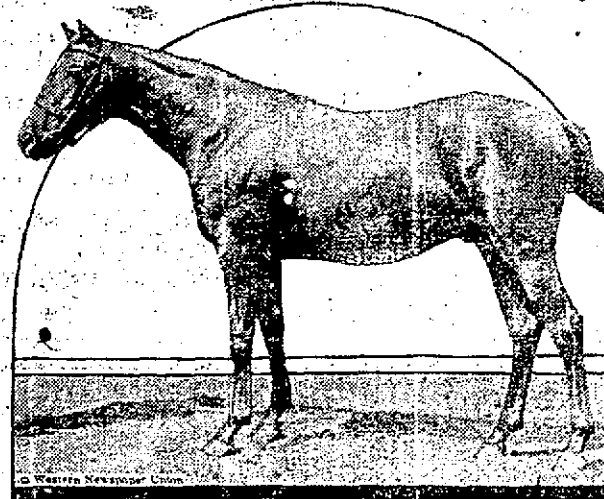

Are you blood-starving for want of iron? Iron is red blood food. If you were to go without eating until you became weak, thin and emaciated, you could not do a more serious harm to yourself than when you let your blood literally go hungry for want of iron—iron that gives it strength and power to change food into living tissue, says Dr. James Francis Sullivan, formerly physician at Bellevue Hospital (Outdoor Dept.), New York, and the Westchester County Hospital.

Modern methods of cooking and the rapid pace at which people of this country live has made such an alarming increase in iron deficiency in the blood of American men and women that I have often marvelled at the large number of people who had iron in the blood—and who never suspect the cause of their weakness, nervous, run-down state. But in my opinion, you can't make strong, sturdy men and women by feeding them on metallic iron. The old forms of metallic iron must go through a digestive process to transform them into organic iron—Nuxated Iron—before they are to be taken up and assimilated by the human system. Now understanding all that has been said and written on this subject by well-known physicians, thousands of people still insist in doing themselves with metallic iron simply because it costs a few cents less. I strongly advise readers in all cases to get a physician's prescription for organic iron—Nuxated Iron—if you don't want to go to this trouble, then purchase only Nuxated Iron in its original packages and see that this particular name (Nuxated Iron) appears on the package. If you have taken preparations such as "Nux" and "Iron" and after similar iron products and failed to get results, remember that such products are an entirely different thing from Nuxated Iron.

If you are not strong or well, you owe it to yourself to make this following test: See how long you can work or how far you can walk without becoming tired. Next take two five-grain tablets of ordinary Nuxated Iron three times per day after meals for two weeks. Then test your strength again and see how much you have gained. Numbers of nervous, run-down people who were ailing all the while have increased their strength and endurance in two weeks' time while taking iron in the proper form.

NATION-WIDE THRIFT TO SOLVE H. C. L. IS Y. M. C. A. DRIVE PLAN

Series of Days to Be Observed to Circulate Savings, Judicious and Wise Expenditure of Earnings.

Nation-wide thrift as the solution of the high cost of living is the message of the national thrift week campaign to be conducted by the Y. M. C. A. January 17 to 24.

To help the American family think straight and act wisely in money matters, the industrial department of the Y. M. C. A. will launch this campaign beginning January 17. Benjamin Franklin's birthday. The government, the American Bankers' association, the National Credit Men's association, and other organizations and clubs representing commerce and industry have offered their cooperation in the hope of making permanent the results of the government's program of thrift and sound investment during the war.

The Y. M. C. A. will aim to demonstrate by concrete examples the practicability but of the communities as a whole if the country is to recover from the effects of the war. On each day of the campaign some phase of the thrift program will be stressed, beginning with "bank day" when the service which the bank renders to the community will be emphasized. The other phases of the week are designated as "Thrift Sunday," "National Life Insurance Day," "Own Your Own Home," "Make a Will Day," "Thrift in Industry Day," "Family Budget Day" and "Pay Your Bill Day."

Among the objectives of the campaign which have been outlined by the national committee, and will be put forward during the week of the campaign are the following:

To educate the community in the important service financial institutions render.

To conserve through the banking institutions the educational value of the various government war loan campaigns.

To teach sound economic doctrines bearing especially on present day unsettled conditions.

To protect people from wild-cat schemes and encourage them to invest in local enterprises.

To encourage every individual in the community to open a bank account.

To encourage people to own property and help them accumulate funds with which eventually to own their own homes.

To help young men and boys to fit their income and abilities into the purposes of a well-rounded life and enable them to bear their full share of responsibility to their families, to the community life and to their country.

right value of things material opens the doorway to a correct valuation of things moral and spiritual, and to an individual acceptance of the involved principles which will relate a man right to himself, his brother man and his God.

To conserve the results of national thrift week observance by a year round program of economic activities.

WORLD ALMANAC, 1920

Contains More Information Than the Needs of Society Require.

Among the latest books, but also among the first books of the new year, and in any event an up-to-the-minute book, the World Almanac for 1920 has been published. According to the impartial judgment of those concerned in its preparation and publication it is the greatest ever. But any latest World Almanac is that. Ask the oldest reader. He knows.

Nations as responsible as the League of Nations and as unscrupulous as the Prohibition Amendment, are treated at length in this almanac, along with the income taxes, the recorded weather, the election results, the chronology and death roll of 1919 and more matters besides than can be indicated outside of the book's own index.

Do you want to arrange a trip across America, hitting all the high spots? Here are 10 pages of altitudes in the United States, not counting New York skyscrapers.

Do you want to know in how large a company you burn up gasoline and highways? Here is a census of motors in New York and a count of auto titles in all the states.

Do you want to abuse the United States Senate by its Christian—save the market—names? Here are the rolls of the 68th Congress in full.

Do you want to know almost anything in sport, politics, trade, industry, religion, government, historical milestones, navies, armies, powers, kings, presidents and such? Here are the facts and the figures, so far as possible official.

Some one speaking of Thomas Bantington Macaulay, remarked on an occasion that he possessed more information than the needs of society required. The intent behind the World Almanac, obviously, is to keep well up with these needs. After a rather close examination of the 1920 issue, we are convinced that it is short of detail only on those affairs which will come to a head just in time for the 1921 book.

The World Almanac is published by the New York World.

SUBSTITUTES FOR MEAT.

Certain foods are well suited to replace meat at the breakfast table. Potatoes appear at dinner 265 times a year, so it is a good idea to turn to the first meal of the day unless used in hash.

Fried Egg Plant.—Slice the egg plant in slices one-third of an inch thick, pare, put into a deep dish and cover with cold water well salted. Soak one hour. Drain, wipe, dip in egg and crumbs and fry brown.

Corn Oysters.—Use canned, corned, if the fresh corn is not obtainable. By scoring deeply with sharp knife, the inside of the kernel may be pressed out and used. Use two cupsful of corn, half a cupful of milk, one cupful of sifted flour, two eggs, a teaspoonful of salt and one tablespoonful each of butter and lard. Beat the yolks of the eggs, add the milk, the flour and salt. Beat to a smooth batter, add the corn, then beat again, adding the stiffly beaten whites the last. Put the lard and butter into a frying pan and when very hot put into the batter by small spoonfuls. Brown on one side, then turn. If the batter is too thick add more milk, the thinner the batter the more delicate and tender the oysters will be.

Eggs in Cream Sauce.—Make a rich white sauce, using two tablespoonfuls of butter and one and one-half of flour cooked together, then add a cupful of thin cream and cook until smooth. Toast bread crisp and brown; butter well. Add two hard-cooked eggs, chopped, to the white sauce and pour over the toast. Serve at once.

Baked Eggs and Mushrooms.—Take one pound of fresh mushrooms, clean and wipe dry. Put into a saucepan with four tablespoonfuls of butter, half a teaspoonful of salt and a dash of pepper. Set over the fire till thoroughly hot, then turn into a shallow baking dish and break over them six eggs. Sprinkle with buttered crumbs and dust with pepper and salt. Bake in hot oven till the eggs are set. Serve on buttered toast.

Supply drink plenty of good, plain water and take a little Syntoxen after meals, is the tip now going the rounds in well informed circles. Many who try this simple home method are agreeably surprised at the rapid increase in weight, strength and power of endurance. They say it quickly helps put renewed vim and energy into the veins of old folks and is a regular boon to thin, weak, nervous run-down young people, often increasing their weight and strength in three weeks' time. A Woman Is As Old As She Looks

Now women want to look old. Many in their effort to look youthful resort to the "beauty doctor." Their mistake is that they visit the wrong department in the drug store.

Beauty depends upon health. Worry, sleepless nights, headaches, pains, disorders, irregularities and weakness of a distinctly feminine character in a short time bring the dull eye, the "crow's foot," the haggard look, drooping shoulders, and the faltering step.

To retain the appearance of youth you must retain health. Instead of lotions, powders and paints, ask your druggist for Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription.

This famous medicine strikes at the very root of these enemies of your youthful appearance. It makes you not only look young but feel young. It overcomes the weakness and builds you up.

SCANTON, PA.—"For over a year I suffered with feminine trouble. I lost in weight until I was almost skin and bones. I had severe backaches, pains in my side and stomach. At times a drink of water would distress me. I doctored but did not improve until I began taking Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription and a few bottles of this so completely cured me that I have never had any return of these ailments. I grew strong and gained back my weight."

MACCABEES TAKE ANOTHER VICTIM IS LATROBE FIVE

R. O. T. M. Aggregation of This City Proves Too Fast For Scholastics.

THE VISITORS NEVER QUIT

Westmoreland Team Keeps Up Fight Until Last Whistle; Held Locals Almost Scoreless in Third Period; Then Subs Step In and Finish Up.

The Maccabees again demonstrated their worth as a basketball team at the high school gymnasium last night when the Latrobe Scholastics were defeated, 39-20. The visitors were a strong representative team of Westmoreland county and the locals had to travel at top speed to keep ahead.

At the end of the first half, after keeping up an exceedingly fast clip throughout, the Maccabees were far in the lead, 26-8. The Latrobe totters tightened up at the opening of the third quarter and with consistent heady playing held the Maccabees to no field goals and only three fouls, while they themselves began to close the gap between the scores.

Regardless of the steady advance of Latrobe during the third quarter four substitutes were put in the line-up in the last period, Henry being the only man to play the game throughout.

The fresh players put new life into the game and with much snap played the visitors hard. Connelville's score again advanced several points, placing the game out of danger.

The Webluna team defeated the Liberty A. C. in the preliminary, 9-7. Both are local teams.

Fans who miss the games staged here by the Maccabees are deprived of a real treat. The team is composed of men who are undoubtedly the fastest players in the city, and only first class organizations are brought here. Negotiations are now in progress with a well known Pittsburgh Ave. which contest, if secured will be an unusual attraction.

The line-up:
MACCABEES-39 LATROBE-20
Brown F. Myers
Honsberger C. Gray
Miller C. Strader
Henry G. Hines
Alderfer G. Hazlett
Field goals—Brown 4, Alderfer 4, Honsberger 3, Beatty 6, Lyon 2, Buttermore, Henry, Myers, Strader.
Foul goals—Brown, 7 out of 10; Beatty, 2 out of 10; Myers, 2 out of 4; Henry, 2 out of 4; Hines, missed four.
Substitutions—Lyon for Brown, Henry for Honsberger, Buttermore for Miller, Crowley for Henry, Buttermore for Alderfer, Gallagher for Myers, Beatty for Gray.
Referee—Wall.

Sport Squibs.
The "Macs" lack only one thing now to make semi-pro basketball a lasting thing in this city and that necessity is more support. Fast Western Pennsylvania teams cannot be brought in if greater support is not given.

The American Legion team holds a practice tomorrow night at the "Y" in preparation for the game on Friday with the Legion team of Uniontown.

The Scottdale Y. M. C. A. Senators play the Latrobe Scholastics at Scottdale tomorrow evening.

The high school team goes to Latrobe Friday night where the high school of that place will be played. On Saturday the Greensburg high school team plays here.

More than ordinary interest is centered in Friday's game here with the Uniontown soldiers. Connelville's Legion team has only appeared once, but there will be no let-up in the fight for victory on Friday.

Whether the Armory club is or isn't is a question many are asking. It has been reported the team is abandoned.

"Bill" Lyon and "Doc" Buttermore have been added to the list of candidates for the Maccabee team. These men were in the game last night and gave a good account of themselves.

DAWSON OPERA HOUSE.

"HIGH POCKETS"—Featuring Louis Benetton, is being presented today. In this picture Louis Benetton is once more at home, back in the west, with the scent of the sage brush in his nostrils and the wide, open spaces before him. Those who have enjoyed his carefree impersonations in "Spensy Meads" and "The Road Called Straight" will find the cowboy in the role of a U. S. marshal the same free soul who has the whole world to roam and to dream in. His dream centre about a girl he has never met, but circumstances combine to make her a reality. And when he finds her, the lovable and breezy westerner knows that his years of service have been worthily rewarded.

THE SOISSON.

"A HONOLULU HONEYMOON"—A super musical comedy, in which Ned Melroy is the principal comedian, will be the attraction tomorrow afternoon and evening at this theatre.

Mr. Melroy is noted as one of the greatest eccentric dancers on the American stage. He is also the originator of the "Pan Tail Cider" which many dancers have tried to imitate but without success. By a strange trick of nature Mr. Melroy was born with the toes of his left foot webbed and it is owing to this peculiar fact that he alone can master the intricate steps of this wonderful dance conception.

"A Honolulu Honeymoon" promises to be replete in surprises both in its scenic beauty and in its musical numbers. A beauty chorus of bewitching girls and a troupe of genuine native Hawaiian musicians headed by Henry Ahiena. Miss Lei Momi is the big feature of this Hawaiian troupe, she being a Hula dancer extraordinary whose surprising Hawaiian dances have made her celebrated in her own country and in this.

The big final scene showing the eruption of the volcano Kilauea is said to be a masterpiece of stage craft. The costumes were designed by Mlle. Rehan who also designed all the wardrobe worn in the great ballet during the Columbus Day Celebration in New York City.

THE PARAMOUNT.

"THE CLOTHOPPER"—A Thomas H. Ince production, featuring Charles Ray, Margery Wilson, Charles French and others, is being shown today.

"The Clothopper" tells the story of a country boy in whom life on the farm is simply work, work, work, but strange to say he is happy with his lot. He is satisfied, though anything but snug. He wants to better his condition, but knows that this can only be done through more work and he is willing to do this. It is his home conditions which finally drive him to the big city. There he gets a position as "clothopper" in a Broadway musical show. The result is not only thrilling, but laughable. He began to dance. As a polished dancer he was a failure but as a "clothopper" and a Broadway novelty he was a success.

A selected comedy is also being shown. Both attractions will be presented tomorrow.

THE SOISSON.

"SHE PAYS"—A powerful drama, featuring an all star cast, is being shown today. The picture is in five acts and is intensely interesting. There are many big moments in the picture and the scenes are especially attractive. The production abounds in entertaining characters, all carefully drawn and possessing strong individual interest. A selected comedy is also being shown.

Tomorrow "A Honolulu Honeymoon," a musical comedy, will be the attraction.

75 HENS LAY 40 EGGS A DAY INSTEAD OF 4

The Same Plan Mr. Schlenker Uses in Winter, Should Work for Others.

"We had a bad winter here, and lots of our chickens were dying. We were getting 2 to 4 eggs a day. Then we read about Don Sung and tried it in January, and out 75 hens started laying 30 to 40 eggs a day."—Wm. H. Schlenker, Box 319, Mott, Mo. Dak.

Figure that out. About 3 dozen extra eggs each day, at 50 cents a dozen, made about $45 per month extra income. Don Sung for his 75 chickens cost Mr. Schlenker about $2 a month. Here's the same offer he accepted, and it's open to you:

Give your hens Don Sung and watch results for one month. If you don't find that it pays for itself and pays you a good profit besides, simply tell us and your money will be promptly refunded.

Don Sung (Chinese for egg-laying) works directly on the egg-laying organs, and is also a splendid tonic. It is easily given in the feed, improves the hen's health, makes her stronger and more active in any weather, and starts her laying.

Try Don Sung for 25 days and if it doesn't get you the eggs no matter how cold or wet the weather, your money will be refunded by return mail. Get Don Sung from your druggist or poultry remedy dealer or send 50 cents for a package by mail prepaid, Burrell-Dugger Co., 320, Columbia Bldg., Indianapolis, Ind.

GOLFER VARDON NOT OPPOSED TO STYMIE

Falls in With Anyone Who Believes in Observing Rules.

Very Keen That Game Be Played According to Rules—Satisfied That Question of Standard Ball Is Not Worth Bother.

"I am not a rabid fanatical hater of the stymie," said Harry Vardon recently on standardization and stymies. "Indeed, whenever I meet anyone who thinks that the rule ought to be observed, I fall in with his idea immediately."

"The trouble is to find anyone who believes in the stymie. My experience in England is that twenty-four out of twenty-five golfers—this is a careful estimate and not a mere statement at random—say 'before' beginning the round. Mind, we're not playing stymies. For words to that effect, in Scotland the position is just about the same. So far as I have been able to judge, this is in itself a strong argument for expanding the stymie from the game—except of course when you lay one yourself."

"Personally, I am very keen that golf should be played strictly in accordance with the rules, and it does not help toward that end to see this stymie."

Harry Vardon.

He has flouted day after day. It weakens a principle and puts the way to other abuses of the law. In addition I cannot see that the stymie is a desirable feature of the game and that it has been in tradition.

"In the international foursome in which Taylor and I had found and heard for 1400 Herd stymied me on one of the greens at Troon when I was about ten yards from the pin. I played straight on his ball and holed out!"

"The question of a standard ball has also come up recently. There are two questions worth considering: Is the scheme workable and is it worth while? Personally I am satisfied that the matter is not worth the slightest bother."

THREE BIG MATCHES

"Battling" Nelson Is Original "I Told You So."

Hegewisch Boxer Predicted Johnson Would Defeat Jeffries, Willard to Win Over Johnson and Dempsey to Whip Willard.

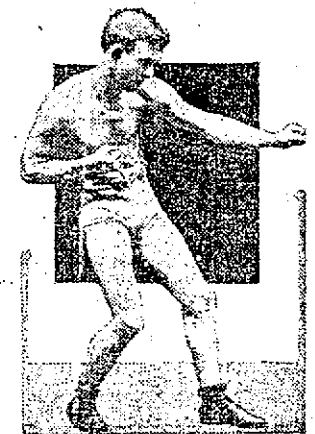

In the little but widely advertised town of Hegewisch, Ill., dwells the original "I told you so" of the fight world—"Battling" Nelson, if you please.

But picked Johnson to win over Jeffries, Willard to win over Johnson and then, right in the face of a sea of Willard's admirers, picked Dempsey to defeat the champion. And here is the logic that issued on the day previous to the fight while Mr. Toledo waited for the big quarrel.

"Picked Johnson over Jeffries, Willard over Johnson, and now making it three straight by picking Dempsey over Willard. Dempsey has in his favor youth and eleven years. He is in good condition and Willard is not. He has trained properly and Willard hasn't. He has been fighting regularly and Willard hasn't. Dempsey likes the game, can punch, is over six feet and weighs nearly two hundred pounds. These are reasons enough why the challenger should and will win."

And what the "I told you so" and the doubtful ones that night in Toledo after the fight was a sin. To one of the particular whom had begged to "bet down" on the challenger but spluttered as follows:

"Yes, I know all you say, but that old hat is crazy. Just like a fox I'm crazy. I feathered my nest on this battle and what is more, I'm going to feather my nest on others. Pick 'em? Say, that's my highest suit. I don't pick for the standpoint of favoritism. I look 'em over, watch 'em work and then I pick the winner. Easy for me, and still you guys say old hat is nuts. There's a lot of fine nuts in this country."

"Battling" Nelson.

SWEET BREADS.

A few cupsful of raised dough saved from the bread making, may form a basis for many kinds of cakes and sweet breads. For a sweet loaf, which is easily made, take two cupsful of light raised bread dough. To this add one beaten egg, add a half cupful of shortening, the same of sugar, chopped fruit or nuts, or both with spices to taste. Cut in the shortening and other ingredients, using two knives as in making pastry, then pour into a well-greased angel food pan or bread pan and let rise until light. Sprinkle with sugar mixed with cinnamon and bake in a moderate oven. Flour will be needed to handle the dough, as it should not be sticky. This mixture makes a good coffee cake, with flour added, and placed in an oblong pan spread with butter, sprinkle with cinnamon mixed with sugar and when light bake in a hot oven. Apples cut in eighths placed in rows on top of a coffee cake before it has risen and sprinkled with sugar and cinnamon give variety.

Cinnamon Rolls.—Take two cupsful of light bread dough, add a half cupful of sugar and four tablespoonsful of shortening, cut into the mixture until well blended. Roll out, adding flour to handle, then spread with butter, sprinkle with brown sugar and cinnamon, roll up and cut in small rings. Place in a greased sheet, brush with white of egg and dust with sugar just before baking.

Raised Doughnuts.—To three cupsful of bread dough add one well-beaten egg, three-fourths cupful of sugar, four tablespoonsful of shortening, one teaspoonful of grated nutmeg or a mixture of nutmeg and cinnamon. Cut in with two knives until thoroughly mixed; add flour to roll. Roll to one-fourth inch in thickness, cut in squares and let rise until light. Fry in fat which will brown a cube of bread in 30 seconds. For filled doughnuts cut the cakes with a rooky cutter, place a teaspoonful of jam in the center and moisten the edges with water, fold over and press the edges together. Let rise until light and fry as usual. Place two tablespoonsful of powdered sugar in a box and dust them one at a time before serving.

Nellie MaxwellDRUG OF MARVELOUS POWER

Bayard Taylor's Description of Sensations Under the Influence of Hashish Is a Classic.

Hashish may be reckoned one of the most classic of all intoxicants. Herodotus, the "Father of History," speaks of its use among the ancient Scythians, and it was doubtless the drug referred to by Homer as "the assuager of grief" in the house of Menelaus. Bayard Taylor's account of his sensations on first taking it at Damascus is memorable. It put him in a state of mental exaltation whereon all sensations as they arose suggested more or less coherent images in a drowsy form, one physical, the other spiritual, and the latter revealing itself in a series of indescribably brilliant metaphors. A few minutes after taking the drug he found himself at the foot of the Great Pyramid. A witch instantly transported him to his summit, far above the palm groves and wheat fields of Egypt. Then, looking down, he observed that the pyramid was not built of stone, but of gigantic blocks of "plum" tobacco. For a moment he writhed in a perfect paroxysm of laughter at this ludicrous discovery. Then his senses were ravished with delicious perfumes, and there came to his ears divine melodies and harmonies such as Beethoven might have dreamed. Time and space seemed vastly extended, so that a minute seemed an hour and an hour a year, while his friends in the same room with him seemed miles away, as though he were viewing them through a reversed telescope.

His Liberality.
"Ain't the guy that married Rosamond sort of a tightwad?" asked Heloise of the rapid-fire restaurant.
"Gosh no!" returned Claudine of the same establishment. "Why, he borrowed every cent she's saved and spent it all in three days!"

The Druggist Complains.
"Can't get my boy interested in compounding prescriptions."
"Why not?"
"Seems trifling to him, I guess, after mixing drinks at the soda fountain."

TARZAN AND THE JEWELS OF OPAR

EDGAR RICE BURROUGHS AUTHOR OF
"TARZAN OF THE APES"
"SON OF TARZAN"
COPYRIGHT 1919 BY EDGAR RICE BURROUGHS

The reticent rays transformed the interior of the soiled and squalid canvas to the splendor of a palace. In the eyes of the dreaming man, he dreamed of joys and luxuries and power which always had been beyond his grasp, and as he dreamed his gaze lifted from the table, as the gaze of a dreamer will, to a far distant goal above the mean horizon of terrestrial commonplaceness.

Unseeing, his eyes rested upon the shaving mirror which hung upon the rent wall above the table; but his sight was focused far beyond. And then a reflection moved within the polished surface of the tiny glass, the man's eyes shot back out of space to the mirror's face, and in it he reflected the grim visage of Achmet Zek, framed in the flaps of the tent doorway behind him.

Werper stifled a gasp of dismay. With rare self-possession he let his gaze drop without appearing to have halted upon the mirror, until it rested again upon the gems. Without haste, he replaced them in the pouch, tucked the latter into his shirt, selected a cigarette from his case, lighted it and rose. Yawning, and stretching his arms above his head, he turned slowly toward the opposite end of the tent. The face of Achmet Zek had disappeared from the opening.

To say that Albert Werper was terrified would be putting it mildly. He realized that he not only had sacrificed his treasure, but his life as well. Achmet Zek would never permit the wealth that he had discovered to slip through his fingers, nor would he forgive the duplicity of a lieutenant who had gained possession of such a treasure without offering to share it with his chief.

Slowly the Belgian prepared for bed. If he were being watched, he could not know; but it so the watcher saw no indication of the nervous excitement which the European strove to conceal. When ready for his blankets, the man crossed to the little table and extinguished the light.

It was two hours later that the flaps at the front of the tent separated silently and gave entrance to a dark-robed figure, which passed noiselessly from the darkness without to the darkness within. Cautiously the prowler crossed the interior. In one hand was a long knife. He came at last to the pile of blankets spread upon several rugs close to one of the tent walls.

Likely, his fingers sought and found the bulk beneath the blankets—the bulk that should be Albert Werper. Then traced out the figure of a man, and then an arm shot upward, poised for an instant and descended. Again and again it rose and fell, and each time the long blade of the knife buried itself in the thigh beneath the blankets. But there was an initial lifelessness in the silent bulk that gave the assassin momentary wonder. Fervently he threw back the coverlets and searched with nervous hands for the pouch of jewels which he expected to find concealed upon his victim's body.

An instant later he rose with a curse upon his lips. It was Achmet Zek, and he cursed because he had discovered beneath the blankets of his lieutenant only a pile of discarded clothing arranged in the form and semblance of a sleeping man—Albert Werper had fled.

Out into the village ran the chief, calling in angry tones to the sleepy Arabs, who tumbled from their tents in answer to his voice. But though they searched the village again and again they found no trace of the Belgian. Foaming with anger, Achmet Zek called his followers to horse, and though the night was pitchy black they set out to scour the adjoining forest for their quarry.

As they galloped from the open gates, Mgambi, hiding in a nearby bush, slipped unseen within the palace. In the darkness he passed, unchallenged, and for an hour he crept about in the rear of the various huts and tents in an effort to locate that in which his master's mate was imprisoned. One there was which he was reasonably assured contained her, for it was the only hut before the door of which a sentry had been posted. Mgambi was crouching in the shadow of this structure, just around the corner from the unsuspecting guard, when another approached to relieve his comrade.

"The prisoner is safe within?" asked the newcomer.

"She is," replied the other, "for none has passed this doorway since I came."

The new sentry squatted beside the door, while he whom he had relieved made his way to his own hut. Mgambi slipped closer to the corner of the building. In one powerful hand he gripped a heavy knob-stick. No sign of elation disturbed his phlegmatic calm, yet inwardly he was aroused to joy by the proof he had just had that "Lady" really was within.

The sentry's back was toward the corner of the hut which hid the giant black. The fellow did not see the huge form which silently loomed behind him. The knob-stick swung upward in a curve, and downward again. There was the sound of a dull thud, the crushing of heavy bone, and the sentry slumped into a silent, inanimate lump of clay.

A moment later Mgambi was searching the interior of the hut. At first slowly calling "Lady!" in a low whisper and finally with frantic, frantic haste until the truth presently dawned upon him—the hut was empty!

CHAPTER IX.

Tarzan Becomes a Beast Again. For a moment Werper had stood above the sleeping ape-man his murderous knife poised for the fatal thrust; but fear stayed his hand. What if the first blow should fail to drive the point to his victim's heart? Werper shuddered in contemplation of the disastrous consequences to himself.

Again came the soft sound of padded footsteps in the reeds—closer this time. He abandoned his design. Before him stretched the wide plain and escape. The jewels were in his possession. To remain longer was to risk death at the hands of Tarzan, or the jaws of the hunter creeping ever nearer. Turning, he slunk away through the night, toward the distant forest.

Tarzan slept on. Where were those uncanny guardian powers that had formerly rendered him immune from the dangers of surprise? Could this dull sleeper be the alert, sensitive Tarzan of old? Perhaps the blow upon his head had numbed his senses temporarily—who may say? Closer crept the stealthy creature through the reeds. The rustling curtain of vegetation parted a few paces from where the sleeper lay, and the massive head of a lion appeared.

It was the beating of the beast's tail against the reeds which awakened Tarzan. Jangle folk do not awaken slowly—instantly, full consciousness and full command of their every faculty returns to them from the depth of profound slumber.

Even as Tarzan opened his eyes he was upon his feet, his spear grasped firmly in his hand and ready for attack. Again was he Tarzan of the Apes, sentient, vigilant, ready.

Whether it was surprise, fear or caution which prompted the lion crouching ready to spring upon the man, is immaterial—the fact remains that he did not carry out his original design, he did not spring at the man at all, but, instead, wheeled and sprang back into the reeds as Tarzan arose and confronted him.

The ape-man shrugged his broad shoulders and looked about for his companion. Werper was nowhere to be seen. At first Tarzan was puzzled; but presently came to the conclusion that Werper had been frightened by the approach of the lion and had sneaked off in terror. A sneer touched Tarzan's lips as he pondered the man's act—the desertion of a comrade in time of danger, and without warning. If that was the sort of creature Werper was, Tarzan righted nothing more of him. He had gone, and for all the ape-man cared, he might remain away—Tarzan would not search for him.

A hundred yards from where he stood grew a large tree, alone upon the edge of the reedy jungle. Tarzan made his way to it, clambered into it, and finding a comfortable crotch among its branches, reposed himself, for uninterrupted sleep until morning.

And when morning came Tarzan opened his eyes, stretched his giant limbs and fields of John Clayton, Lord Greystoke, Tarzan of the Apes looked, as a stranger, upon the moving figures of Busuli and his braves as they unpacked their morning meal and made ready to set out upon the expedition which Busuli had planned after discovering the havoc and disaster which had befallen the estate of his dead master.

The ape-man eyed the blacks with curiosity. In the back of his brain lingered a fleeting sense of familiarity with all that he saw, yet he could not connect any of the various forms of life, animate and inanimate, which had fallen within the range of his vision since he had emerged from the darkness of the pits of Opur, with any particular event of the past.

He watched the blacks scatter their cook fire and depart; but though the face of each of them had but recently been as familiar to him as his own they awakened within him no recollections whatsoever.

When they had gone, he descended from the tree and sought food. A plump young zebra mare and a stallion grazed nearest to him as he neared the herd. It was instinct which selected the former for his meal. A low bush grew but a few yards from the unsuspecting two. The ape-man reached its shelter. He gathered his spear firmly in his grasp. Cautiously he drew his feet beneath him. In a single swift move he rose and cast his heavy weapon at the mare's side. Nor did he wait to note the effect of his assault, but leaped catlike after his spear his hunting knife in his hand.

For an instant the two animals stood motionless. The tearing of the cruel barb into her side brought a sudden scream of pain and fright from the mare, and then they both wheeled and broke for safety; but Tarzan of the Apes, for a distance of a few yards, could equal the speed of even these, and the first stride of the mare found her overhauled with a savage hoist at her shoulder. She turned, hitting and kicking at her foe. Her mate hesitated for an instant, as though about to rush to her assistance; but a backward glance revealed to him the flying heels of the balance of the herd, and with a snort and a shake of his head he wheeled and dashed away.

Clinging with one hand to the short mane of his quarry, Tarzan struck again and again with his knife at the unprotected heart. The result had, from the first, been inevitable. The mare fought bravely, but hopelessly, and presently sank to the earth, her heart pierced. The ape-man placed a foot upon her carcass and raised his voice in the victory call of the Mangani.

Tarzan grasped his kill and dragged it to the partial shelter of the bush which had hidden his own near approach, and there he squatted upon it, cut a huge hunk of flesh from the loin and proceeded to satisfy his hunger with the warm and dripping meat.

Attracted by the shrill screams of the mare a pair of hyenas slunk presently into view. They trotted to a point a few yards from the gorging ape-man and halted. Tarzan looked up, bared his fighting fangs and growled. The hyenas returned the compliment, and withdrew a few paces. They made no more, but continued to sit at a respectful distance until Tarzan had finished his meal. After the ape-man had cut a few strips from the carcass to carry with him, he walked slowly off in the direction of the river to quench his thirst. His way lay directly toward the hyenas, nor did he alter his course because of them.

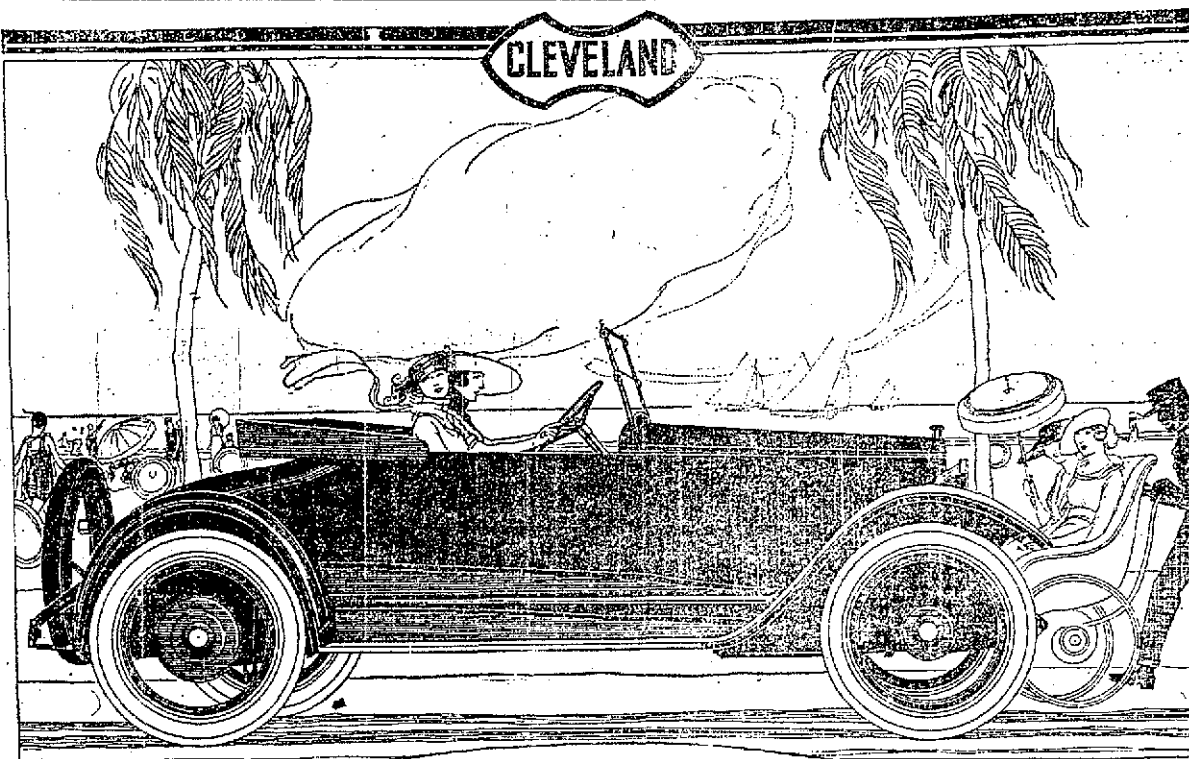

With all the lordly majesty of Numa, the lion, he strode straight toward the gawling beasts. For a moment they held their ground, bristling and defiant; but only for a moment, and then slunk away to one side while the indifferent ape-man passed them on his lordly way. A moment later they were tearing at the remains of the zebra.

At the river, Tarzan drank his fill and bathed. During the heat of the day he lay up under the shade of a tree near the ruins of his burned barn. His eyes wandered out across the plain toward the forest, and a longing for the pleasures of its mysterious depths possessed his thoughts for a considerable time. With the next sun he would cross the open and enter the forest! There was no hurry—there lay before him an endless vista of tomorrows with naught to fill them but the satisfying of the appetites and caprices of the moment. Recalling only dimly any other existence, the ape-man was happy. Lord Greystoke had ceased to exist.

For several hours Tarzan lolled upon his swaying, leafy couch until once again hunger and thirst suggested an excursion. Stretching lazily he dropped to the ground and moved slowly toward the river. Tarzan had almost reached the point where the trail debouched upon the open river bottom when he saw a pair of lions approaching along the path from the direction of the river. The ape-man counted seven—a male and two lionesses, full grown, and four young lions as large and quite as formidable as their parents. Tarzan halted, growling, and the lions paused, the great male in the lead baring his fangs and rumbling forth a warning roar. In his hand the ape-man held his heavy spear; but he had no intention of putting his puny weapon against seven lions; yet he stood there growling and roaring and the lions did likewise. It was purely an exhibition of jungle bluff. Each was trying to frighten off the other. Neither wished to turn back and give way, nor did either at first desire to precipitate an encounter. The lions were fed sufficiently so as not to be goaded by pangs of hunger and as for Tarzan he seldom ate the meat of the carnivores; but a point of ethics was at stake and neither side wished to back down. So they stood there facing one another, making all sorts of hideous noises the while they hurled jungle invective back and forth.

Hearty Praise from Cleveland Six Owners

The Cleveland Six will dominate the light car field because it is so much better. It will lead because it gives so much more in smooth-flowing power, in ease of riding, in style and quality, than other light cars. Thousands of Cleveland Sixes are on the road right now, performing in every sense and in the last degree right up to expectations.

Dealers demanding much have driven Cleverlands thousands of miles across country, over every kind of road, putting the car to every conceivable test. And they say there is no other light car like it. No other that will do so much and do it so well and so economically.

Cleveland owners are enthusiastic about its ease of driving. "It handles like a feather." "You can drive it with one finger." "It just almost steers itself." These and hundreds of other phrases of praise come from enthusiastic Cleveland owners.

"It steps out as fast as any car that was ever built." "The speedometer slips around to forty or fifty before you know it." "There's practically no vibration." "It fairly glides over sharp hills and long mountain climbs." Cleveland owners tell us all these things and they will tell you if you ask them.

To really know and appreciate the Cleveland, to understand all that we mean when we say it is so much better, you must ride in it and drive it.
